TYPE ME

“The all-American guy with an quirky edge”

Will Schroeder: Mid-late 20s, rugged, volatile, with a heart of gold.

He's the boy next door in rural, middle America. vulnerable and tough at the same time. Will works construction during the day and bartends at night to support himself and his ailing grandmother. He feels trapped in his hometown, but as long as he can remember, loyalty to his small-town roots has been beaten into him. Everything changes when a beautiful woman from New York City walks into his bar one day.

Think: Lewis Pullman / Mike Faist

Justin Schudy: Mid-late 20s, charming, toxic, white collar bro

He works at Black Rock as an financial advisor and loves pulling pranks on his hapless intern, Ryan. Justin was the bully on the elementary school playground and now plays the alpha as an adult. However, beneath the cocky exterior, Justin is deeply insecure. He portrays himself as the ultimate ladies man but most women find him obnoxious and immature. Masking his feelings of inadequacy with bravado and cruelty, it's only a matter of time before Justin really hurts someone.

Think: Nicholas Hoult / Penn Badgley

Simon Bauer: Mid-late 20's, ill-fated, loveable doofus.

Simon is the perpetual loser you can't help but root for. Currently living with his overbearing stepmother back in the suburbs, Simon is recovering from a bad break-up. Rudy, his childhood best friend, got him a job as a food truck driver in the interim, while he pieces his life back together. It doesn't matter how many times you knock Simon down; nothing can break his spirit. He's more attractive to women than he thinks.

Think: Lucas Hedges / Barry Keoghan

WHAT THE PEOPLE SAY!

A man with a mustache, wearing a light-colored cowboy hat, a light-colored suit jacket, a white shirt, and a patterned tie. He has a pencil in his mouth and is looking directly at the camera with a neutral expression. The background is dark and out of focus.
